In Memoriam

Dakota City, Neb., October 11, 1913.
With lightning like rapidity the news went through our little town on Wednesday, October 1st, that William Dierking had, about dinner time, failen from a scaffold on a new building in South Sloux City, where he worked as carpenter and that he had suffered probably fatal injuries. No one saw him fail, as his co-workers had gone to their dinners. Some time afterward he was found lying on a pile of lumber on the ground.

All in man's power was done for him but the irristible death claimed the victory. Thursday forenoon at 11:30 o'clock, in the presence of his wife and children, at St Joseph's hospital, where he had been taken, he went to his eternal rest.

The funeral was held Sunday, October 5th, from his home in South Sioux City.

He was buried under the auspices of the Kaiser Frederick Lodge No. 24 of Dakota City, Nebraska, and the German Krieger Verein of Sloux City, Iowa, in Graceland cemetery at Morningside.

Nevermore will the brethern of Kaiser Frederick Lodge hear his joyous laughter. His hand which was always open to a brother in need is cold and rigid in death. His lips, ever ready to help a needy brother with word of encouragment, are quiet forevermore.

Brother William Dierking, in the name

Brother William Dierking, in the name of the Kaiser Frederick Lodge No. 24, we promise to keep for you, in our hearts, a true and lasting memory.

Be it Resolved to express our heartiest sympathy with his family in this their great bereavment, and that we hope that God, the Almighty, will help and console them.

Be it further Resolved that we drape our charter for thirty days and send a copy of these resolusions to the stricken family and publish the same in the North Nebraska Eagle, the Dakota County Herald and in the Hermanns Sohn.

Brother William Dierking rest in peace,
Fritz Schriever.
